

Letter to clients of Wilson Veterinary Hospital's from Dr. Wilson

As of June 1, 2021, I sold Wilson Veterinary Hospital in Washington Township including the East and West buildings. I am hoping to answer questions with this note.

1. Who are the new owners?

Matthew Dincau DVM
Keith Burge DVM
Belinda Marcordes-Wilson DVM
Nicholas Vitale DVM

All are employees of WVH that share the same vision of providing full service veterinary care.

2. What about the other Wilson Veterinary Hospitals?

I still own Animal Clinic of Sterling Heights, Yale Veterinary Hospital and Rescue Veterinary Services and partner in Hollow Corners Veterinary Services, Richmond Veterinary Hospital and Parker Veterinary Hospital.

The goal is to maintain the cooperative relationship among all the hospitals.

3. Are you retiring?

No, I am available for appointments and surgery at Animal Clinic of Sterling Heights and Wilson Veterinary Hospital indefinitely. I will continue to offer both medical and surgical services including orthopedics and reproduction. There is no immediate schedule change and I will still cover emergencies at Wilson Veterinary Hospital.

4. Why did you sell?

There are many reasons, some personal and some concerning health. As important though, I thought the interested group would be capable of maintaining the mission of providing full service veterinary medicine responding to multiple communities. The new owners are passionate, dedicated and excellent veterinarians. It was the right time to sell and these are the right buyers.
